SECTION 1 – DEPARTMENTAL OVERVIEW

1.1 The Minister’s Message

The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) – now in its 16th year – has contributed to significant increases in trade and foreign direct investment in North America. NAFTA has contributed to the competitiveness of the North American region by sharpening the competitive advantages of businesses and increasing the prosperity of our citizens. Canada remains committed to NAFTA as the cornerstone of North American competitiveness.

NAFTA covers a broad range of issues. It provides for the elimination of duties for practically all goods, facilitates the cross-border movement of business persons, addresses certain non-tariff barriers and provides formal mechanisms for resolving disputes. NAFTA created one of the largest free trade areas in the world and has a total market place of some 444 million consumers, with a combined Gross Domestic Product (GDP) of $18.0 trillion in 2008. Prior to the current global economic situation, North American employment levels had climbed 24% between 1993 and 2008, representing a net gain of 40.1 million jobs.

The NAFTA Secretariat is composed of the Canadian Section, the U.S. Section and the Mexican Section. It administers the mechanisms specified under the NAFTA to resolve trade disputes between national industries and/or governments in a timely and impartial manner. Through increasing the quality of the management of international trade dispute settlement processes, the Canadian Section of the NAFTA Secretariat also contributes to the strengthening of Canada’s international trade performance. Exporters and investors are far more likely to engage in international commerce when they have access to impartial dispute settlement mechanisms should disagreements arise.

Canada’s economic prosperity will continue to be defined by its success in an increasingly integrated international market, especially in North America. With today’s global recession, Canada must look forward; we must continue with a renewed commitment to the removal of barriers to the free flow of trade and investment in combination with an effective mechanism to resolve any potential dispute. Under these circumstances, the conditions will be set where Canadians can further excel and where Canada can rise from today’s economic downturn under more favourable conditions.

I encourage the Canadian Section of the NAFTA Secretariat to continue its high level of service in the administration of dispute settlement mechanisms of the NAFTA.

The Honourable Stockwell Day
Minister of International Trade

1.2 Summary Information

This report begins by briefly describing the purpose of the NAFTA Secretariat, Canadian Section, followed by the Canadian Section's strategic outcome and performance results for the period under review, including financial performance and operating environment. The report then summarizes risks and challenges as well as human and financial resources. The final section provides organizational information on who we are and what we do.

The report reflects the Government of Canada Reporting Principles, which requires departments and agencies to:

- focus on the benefits for Canadians, explain the critical aspects of planning and performance, and set them in context;
- present concise, credible, reliable, and balanced information;
- associate performance with plans, priorities, and expected results, explain changes, and apply lessons learned; and
- link resources to results.

1.2.1 Raison d'être and Responsibilities

The NAFTA Secretariat, Canadian Section is an independent agency created in 1994 under the North American Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act (see Annex A for the full mandate of the Secretariat). Its principle responsibility is to administer the dispute settlement provisions in NAFTA Chapters 19 and 20. It also provides assistance to the Ministerial level Free Trade Commission when required and participates in the Chapter 19 Working Group. The Canadian Section's mandate was expanded in 1997 and again in 2002 to include the administration of dispute settlement provisions in Canada's Free Trade Agreements with Israel, Chile and Costa Rica.

To fulfill its mandate, the Canadian Section must maintain a highly efficient, effective and impartial process for the implementation of dispute settlement provisions under NAFTA and the bilateral Agreements. This is an important contribution to preserving the benefits of free trade for all stakeholders.

The Canadian Section of the NAFTA Secretariat is funded by Parliament through a program expenditures vote. It reports to Parliament, for financial accountability purposes, through the Minister of International Trade.

For more details on the operating context, see the NAFTA Secretariat website at <http://www.nafta-sec-alena.org> and the Canadian Section website at <http://www.nafta-alena.gc.ca/en/view.aspx>

1.2.6 Risk Analysis – Operating Environment

The NAFTA Secretariat operates in a context where different legal, linguistic, business and cultural traditions prevail. Managing the Canadian participation in this tripartite organization must be conducted within the policies and practices of the Canadian Government and also be harmonized with administrative practices of its U.S. and Mexican partners. New initiatives often require extensive consultations and negotiation before they can be implemented. In light of this, maintaining close working relationships with its counterpart sections in the United States and Mexico is fundamental to the Canadian Section’s effective performance.

1.2.7 Expenditure Profile

The expenditure profile of the Canadian Section can vary from year-to-year and future spending trends are difficult to predict. This is because the costs associated with delivery of its program fluctuate with the number of dispute settlement cases that are filed. In 2008-09, the number of cases involving Canada was much fewer than previous caseload years.

The government is nevertheless required under NAFTA and Canadian legislation to maintain the dispute settlement system and be ready for new cases as they arise. This includes management of the web-enabled dispute settlement case registry system and the NAFTA Secretariat website, both of which are the responsibility of the Canadian Section on behalf of the Secretariat, as well as the provision of information to governments and the public on an ongoing basis. The corporate expenses associated with the management of the agency itself are ongoing.

SECTION 2 – ANALYSIS OF PERFORMANCE BY STRATEGIC OUTCOME

2.1 Strategic Outcome

A highly efficient, impartial and rules-based international trade dispute resolution process that benefits Canadian exporters to NAFTA countries, as well as NAFTA country exporters doing business in Canada

In its 2008-2009 RPP, the NAFTA Secretariat, Canadian Section identified one strategic outcome through one program activity. Our strategic outcome is directly aligned with one of the Government of Canada's outcomes, which is A Strong and Mutually Beneficial North American Partnership. Our key program activity is briefly described below.

2.1.1 Program Activity by Strategic Outcome

2.1.1.1 Administration of International Trade Dispute Settlement Mechanisms

Our key Program Activity clearly reflects our only strategic outcome. In carrying out the Administration of International Trade Dispute Settlement Mechanisms, the Canadian Section collaborates with its counterparts in the United States and Mexico and develops policies and programs and administers a court-like registry to carry out its mandated responsibilities.

Further, in its 2008-2009 Report on Plans and Priorities (RPP), the NAFTA Secretariat, Canadian Section identified a secondary program activity defined as internal services, in line with TBS directives. This program activity is used by all departments and agencies to describe corporate services designed to deliver cost-effective support services that facilitate the achievement of departmental objectives. All financial and non-financial performance information relating to this program activity is captured under our key program activity.

The following table provides a summary of planned and actual spending on financial and human resources as well as performance related information.

2.1.2 Benefits for Canadians

Canada's economic growth and prosperity rely on access to foreign markets, particularly in the NAFTA countries. The program activity of the NAFTA Secretariat serves the public interest by providing effective administration of the dispute settlement processes when our market access is jeopardized. Canadian exporters, importers, producers and investors in goods and service industries directly benefit from a fairer and more predictable operating environment.

2.1.3 Performance Analysis

The NAFTA Secretariat's actual performance management framework consists of six key documents. These are:

- The Report on Plans and Priorities - sets the strategic direction and outlines to parliamentarians and Canadians the results the organization plans to achieve with the resources entrusted to it;
- The Strategic Plan - defines the Secretariat's mandate and strategic outcome, assesses the internal and external situation, documents the corporate risk profile and provides strategic priorities for the next 3-5 years;
- The Integrated Business and Human Resources Plan - integrates business, people and technology management as the foundation for the effective planning of ongoing operations. It identifies the human resource and information technology implications by priority project for the fiscal year;
- Management Accountability Framework assessment, which provided us with excellent feedback to help us strengthen our management capabilities;
- Internal Audit Report; and,
- The Departmental Performance Report completes the accountability loop by reporting to Parliament on the results achieved.

The NAFTA Secretariat fully or partially met all of the five expected results highlighted under Section 2.1.1 above. Each of the expected results will be briefly discussed below.

Effective support to panels and committees: The Canadian Section administered a total of six panel proceedings, with two decisions issued. Four of these proceedings were terminated and the remaining two were still under review at March 31, 2009. All the proceedings involving Canada were filed in the U.S. Section of the NAFTA Secretariat. The Canadian Section collaborated with its counterpart to provide administrative, logistical and financial support to these proceedings. Status reports for these cases are available on the NAFTA Secretariat website at <http://www.nafta-sec-alena.org>.

Efficient administrative processes: The Canadian Section ensured impartial procedural guidance and provided equitable administrative support to panelists and participants in the dispute settlement proceedings.

Increased national and international collaboration: The Canadian Section, in collaboration with the U.S. and Mexican Sections, successfully launched the new NAFTA Secretariat and Canadian Section websites and as well the new Registry Information System (case management system), which were completed towards the end of last fiscal year. The website provides a variety of users with easy access to online information. The web-based Registry Information System enables the three national sections to capture panel review related information and numerous other required tools in an environment where sharing information is an essential part of doing business. The established service standard respecting the postings of panel decisions and other notices on the website for the Registry services is that they should be posted on the same day the decisions are issued. This target was achieved 100% of the time.

The Canadian Section also participated in NAFTA Chapter 19 Working Group meetings and conference calls with a view of facilitating the operations of Chapter 19 panels.

Improved management practices: During the year under review, a Strategic Plan and Integrated Business and Human Resources Plan were developed. Steps also were taken to ensure compliance with the TBS Policy on Information Management. In this regard, a new classification system along with updated policies and directives, have been developed and are currently being implemented. Significant work remains to be done in order to fully implement the policy. As the project commenced the Canadian Section encountered challenges with respect to lack of in-house expertise. As a result the project completion and implementation periods were delayed.

Knowledgeable and adaptive workforce: The Canadian Section is facing a number of internal and external factors relating to sustaining the current level of human resources while delivering its mandated responsibilities in an effective and efficient manner. In this regard, we have initiated a capacity assessment aimed at ensuring that resources within the organization are utilized in the best possible way to achieve optimum results. Recommendations resulting from this assessment will be implemented during the next fiscal year.

2.1.4 Lessons Learned

The 2007-08 MAF assessment report highlighted that the Canadian Section “has continually demonstrated its willingness to work with the TBS to better articulate and implement management objectives”. In this regard, the Canadian Section will continue such endeavours with central agencies and its counterparts to better serve all stakeholders.

In the areas of information technology/information management, the Canadian Section will continue to improve its information technology architecture so that it will be ready if and when an e-filing pilot project is launched.
